1. [REDACTED] SMA has given the Central Administration of Industry authority over production, planning, and distribution of certain individual products, but that there is no indication that SMA is planning any basic extension of Central Administration of Industry authority over the state administrations. Attachment I contains a translation of SMA Order #02 of January 1947. This order was available to the Central Administration of Industry only in excerpts. Source points out that the products listed in this order, for which SMA has taken over authority, are essentially those which the Central Administration of Industry had requested be put under its own jurisdiction.

2. [REDACTED] the economy of all the states of the Russian Zone is to be guided by the Central Administration of Industry so that the Russians can have a counterweight against the U.S.-British Bizonal office in Minden. [REDACTED] this change is already in effect and that representatives of the Central Administration are empowered to conduct negotiations for the entire Russian Zone. He states that it is an exception when an industrialist receives an order directly from SMA now instead of through the Central Administration of Industry.

B-2 Translation of Excerpts of SMA Order No. 02, January 1947:

The Central Administration of Industry is ordered to distribute raw materials and finished products according to para. 9 of Order #67 of 6 March 1946.

The directives laid down for the distribution are also applicable to Soviet A.G. enterprises, which are supplied with raw materials, materials, and half-finished products through the local provincial and state agencies, depending upon their geographical position. The Central Administration of Industry will distribute, according to the usual procedure, all products which are not listed in the nomenclature of the Department for Economic Planning of SMA.

In order to achieve a normal distribution of materials, half-finished products, raw materials, and finished products, the Soviet A.G.'s are requested to submit to the Central Administration of Industry the necessary reports and particulars in regard to the production of goods, for which the Department for Economic Planning of the SMA in Germany is not responsible.

NOTICE:

Mr. Nossov has listed below the Russian organizations (Bedarfstraeger) which, according to para. 9 of Order #67, or according to Order #02, have to submit their requirements in writing to the German Administrations.
